Alexandria Branch Fund-raising Activities

A. AAUW Educational Opportunities Fund (EOF)

1. One dollar ($1) of each Branch member's dues is designated for EOF. Other donations and memorial gifts will be encouraged. Members may be given a formal opportunity to pledge contributions to EOF throughout the year.
2. Yearly Contribution.
 - a. Each calendar year, for every $500 contributed by the Branch and its members, the Branch has the option of naming a member(s) as an Honoree(s). However, the Branch may decide not to name any Honorees or simply name one or two members. This decision is at the Board's discretion. An Honoree may be a current or deceased member of the Branch. Apart from the naming of Branch Honorees, the Treasurer will send a check to National for the Branch's monetary contributions for the calendar year, no later than December 31.
 - b. The nomination criteria for selecting Honorees is the Board's decision. It may solicit nominations from the Branch membership through whatever medium(s) it identifies. Once Honoree nominees are identified, the Board votes on the names to be submitted by the Branch EOF Chair to the State AAUW Funds Chair, no later than March 1.
 - c. Honorees will have their names printed in the annual spring State Convention/Conference program brochure and will receive a Certificate of Appreciation; typically, presented at the Branch's annual meeting. Printed Honoree certificates are provided by the State Funds Chair for presentation; blank certificates are also available free from the National AAUW.

3. Legal Advocacy Fund (LAF)

The AAUW Legal Advocacy Fund is the organization through which AAUW renders assistance and services, gives support and advice, and provides funds for litigation on behalf of women in higher education whose civil liberties and rights are threatened, infringed, or violated. APPENDIX C. DRAFT NATIONAL DEFINITION EXPLANATIONS

The following is taken from an Email exchange between representatives of Alexandria VA Branch AAUW and the Governance Office of AAUW National:

“The IRS requires any national organization to identify and keep records on any entity that is affiliated with it. Affiliation means that any tax exempt organization “local” entity that uses the AAUW name in its own name or in its operations. In order to be affiliated, that entity must sign the AAUW-Affiliation Agreement, a document that has been approved for use by the IRS, that requires such a document to be provided to and signed by any entity seeking affiliation. This document is the basic contract between the entity and AAUW, and it is the entity’s decision whether to sign or not. BUT if they don’t sign, they have no right to use the AAUW name (or any AAUW branch or state org. name) in their own name or in any business dealings or operations. The IRS tracks all such entities in its Master List submission to AAUW every March 1. AAUW provides that list back to the IRS March 31 each year with any corrections necessary, including updated leadership names and the entity’s office current address.

While not all national organizations have our structure, each national organization must have its national structure approved by the IRS, as we did when we restructured in 2009. It is a rigorous and long process, even for an organization such as ours with such a long history, and change in structure must go through rigorous examination by IRS. Ours took a little more than a year. Among the many changes, we switched to using the term “Territory” in the Affiliate Agreement because some online branches either have or could have no state locale. This has not occurred ,but it could. We have state organizations because the branches formed them. The state does not form branches, AAUW approves branch formation and the branches formed the states. Once formed, then they have the power to end them, but only one has, to my knowledge—they have only one branch.

Most of AAUW’s entities are branches and states, but a growing number are Younger Women’s Task Force (YWTF) chapters, which are known as comparable affiliated entities in that they are just like branches except that they are specifically organized to serve AAUW members under the age of 40, and usually are formed in places separate from the local branch, though usually work with the nearby branch. Some branches have a related 501(c)(3) entity for financial purposes. These were primarily formed in the eighties and nineties with the misunderstanding that such an entity was necessary. It is not, c-4 entities can become c-3 entities, but either way, ANY c-4 and any c-3 that operates as a branch, a funding agent for a branch, uses the name of AAUW, only uses funds directed by an AAUW entity, etc. MUST be an affiliated entity to meet the IRS test. Any that have not signed the Affiliate Agreement misunderstand their IRS obligation, and are subject to losing their nonprofit status if the use of the AAUW name in their own name or in their operations is not authorized by virtue of them signing of an AAUW Affiliate Agreement and providing it to the AAUW. This is essential, but not inclusive of the IRS requirements, which include following the AAUW bylaws, and reporting every new officer to AAUW so that AAUW is always prepared for the random IRS inspections of affiliated entity bona fides.”
